Community Day Has Three-Fold Purpose

Hartzell Cobbs
First H.S. Head

"Nampa, Idaho, Apr. 23, 1935
"Dear Mr. Pederson,
"Will you kindly express for me my deep appreciation to the alumni and citizenry of Genesee for their kind consideration in the coming school celebration.
"Yes, I am coming May 3 to Genesee to greet once more the boys and girls who attended the Genesee schools while I was superintendent; to hear the alumni tell of their struggles in life, and to meet those who attended at a later date. I also wish to talk to my old friends of former days and smile with them at the many changes that "Old Father Time" has carved upon our faces. I realize that the old racial has beautified me mightily little.
"But let us stop and figure. I came to Genesee in the fall of 1894 and was the school master for eleven years. O, my, that makes 41 years ago since I took charge of the Genesee schools. No wonder I am worse for the wear.
"The high school was only partially organized that year, 1894; a four-year course was adopted by the board of education, and we had our first graduating class in 1896. I believe it was a class of four.
"While I was with the school the building was enlarged twice its original size. All of us were very proud of our "new high school building." The rooms were large and attractive and I had a mighty good looking, intelligent faculty. The number of pupils more than tripled in attendance. The faculty now numbered nine.
"I hope about twenty years that have

TERCENTENARY AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOLS COMBINE WITH ALUMNI REUNION IN LOCAL FETE MAY 3

High School Prints First Annual In '12 Grade Schools Will Participate in Event

It was not until 1912—16 years after that memorable first class that the Genesee high school published its initial annual, "The Pow-Wow."
Prepared by the advanced English class, it was dedicated to the basket ball team, champions of Idaho, and the Inland Empire. This famed quintet, included as regular players: Andy Wardrobe, John Wardrobe, Melvin Wardrobe, James Keane and Charles Gray.
The hot-stepping five beat Rathdrum for the Inland Empire crown by an 18 to 16 score, relates the annual, and a live crowd of 212 made the trip to Moscow to see the local boys grab off the largest slice of bacon that any GHS team has ever done. But this isn't supposed to be Damon Runyan's account of that glorious struggle; it's a story about an annual.
Besides its athletic section with pictures of its diverse sports aggregations, this publication contained pictures of all classes, with accounts of each, pictures of the faculty, and a few line drawings.
In it were 10 commandments for seniors, but what class or what wrote

SCHOOLS' INTENT TO FOSTER A WHOLESOME COMMUNITY SPIRIT AND TO PERPETUATE INTEREST.
(By Supt. E. S. Suenkel)
Greetings, Alumni, Patrons, Students and Friends. As we are preparing to assemble for the biggest Community Day Genesee has had the pleasure of celebrating, permit me to express my appreciation for the whole-hearted support and cooperation extended by the various groups taking part.
Community Day had its inception in the desire of the school to take an active part in stimulating and fostering a wholesome community spirit; to provide recreation, sociability, inspiration, and citizenship, participation which was free from commercialization.
This year is known as the "Tercentenary," celebrating 300 years of American high schools. The first demand for secondary education in the United States was made by the Massachusetts Bay colonists in order to insure a learned ministry for the future. On April 23, 1635, the citizens of Boston, in town meeting assembly,
