

Teresa Scharnhorst Delore: (compiled 2024)

In grade school she and Lois would get to laughing and the teacher had them sit under their desks. But of course, being under their desks and looking at each other was the most hilarious thing and they could never stop laughing. Sister said they were a lost cause.

They had a new principal in Highschool and he made an announcement that the girls could no longer wear pants and always skirts from now on. One of Lois' friends suggested: "Why don't we all wear pants tomorrow. They won't be able to kick all of us out." So Teresa and Lois agreed and the next day in school, they were the only ones who dared to wear pants. Well, they were kicked out for the day and it was cold and snowy. They went next door to the hot lunch site and then went out and made a snowman. Except this was going to be a snowwoman instead. They had the large balls all set up, then to make it a woman they were adding the breasts....when they school principal came by and he just started laughing and laughing. The girls were all freaked out by seeing him and tried to smash the breasts off of the snowwoman in a hurry. But this just made them all laugh harder, including the principal.

Teresa and Lois were really giggling and laughing before the morning bell rung and then it did ring and the teacher said, "Sit down! And be quiet." Well, they just kept laughing as silently as possible and the teacher grabbed Lois by the collar and told her to go to the Principal. Teresa piped up and said "I don't think that's fair!" So Teresa was sent to the principal also. They both went into his office and he said "What are you here for?" Lois said, "For laughing." The principal looked at them and said, "Well, sit right there until she calms down."

One time Teresa and Lois were up all night in the Farmhouse, just giggling and having a good time. Around 5:30 a.m. they decided to make some coffee. Henry woke up as usual at 6:00 a.m. and was so surprised that he had to compliment them, "Well, it's wonderful that you girls could get up so early and make coffee for us."

Henry Lorang was so patriotic that he would stand up at attention every time he heard the "Star Spangled Banner". Lois and Teresa couldn't help but wonder if he would still stand up if he heard this song while in the bathroom. So they found a record and set it up so Henry could hear it when.....well, they never did hear the end of the story.

Lois was doing the dishes in the Farmhouse Kitchen sink. Teresa and a friend were on horses and decided to quietly ride up to the kitchen window so they horses would be looking right in. Lois looked up and screamed. Then they all screamed with laughter.

We have a handwritten message from Mae that says "Talk to you after school." Teresa laughed and said they would send these messages in little cars that would zoom right to you in a hurry.

Teresa told of a joke Dan liked. Here's how it went, "There was a man who sat down for lunch with a peanut butter sandwich. He says, "You'd think a man could get somethin' better than a peanut butter sandwich." The next day, the man opens up his lunch and there is a peanut butter sandwich. He says, "You'd think that a man who works this hard, could get somethin' better than a peanut butter sandwich!" To which his friend says, "Well, why don't you tell your wife?" The first man answers, "Now, don't go doggin' on my wife! I make my own sandwiches."

I'll tell you
AFTER CLASS

*The young woman
O.K.*

Mae -

I'll meet you at the cafe - what do you want me to order for you? Sit down as soon as you can. So it doesn't get cold!
Mrs.